The problem is, measuring reading level is really outside of its sweet spot as a learning tool, with better resources available from DRA, DIBELS, Lexile, Reading Recovery, and Rigby, among others. There is also the issue of availability, with most schools only using one or two of these tools, and primarily in early elementary school.

These kindergartners may be able to easily read books with a Lexile score of 150 to 300 or a Guided Reading Level of D or E in September. Rather than worry that a child is not further along in their reading ability, parents should focus on tracking whether or not their child's reading ability continues to grow throughout a year.
